FRANTIC—CHILDREN.

The Cry of Fire Causes a Panic in a New York School.

New York, Sept. 20.—A panic occurred among the pupils of St. Mary's Catholic institution in Jersey City, by the accidental ignition of a statue of the Virgin. Some one shouted "Fire!" and rushed for the stairs. The others screamed and then a scene of indescribable excitement ensued. The girls, whose number was about thirty, jumped from their seats and made their way frantically for the door. In their fright several of them were knocked down, and the pressure was so great that many were almost killed. The Sister, during this stampede, had promptly extinguished the flames, and then, hastening among her pupils, she made every effort to restrain them. Her voice could not be heard amid the din, and her strength was powerless to arrest the storm. She was in their struggle to get out of the room, and some stairs were choked by the terrified throng. The girls were knocked down and trampled upon. The confusion was increased by the panic spreading to the first and third classes of girls. When the children in those classes heard the uproar and cries of "Fire!" that resounded through the building, they became unmanageable and burst out of their seats. MISCELLANEOUS.

Gath on the Sun.
New York, Sept. 20.—"Gath" says: The mere phraseology of political drummers and recruiting sergeants at the present moment is more than usually childish. We are told every morning that the "Republican party must go" as if our people set to work like the Brahmins in their prayers to say "over and over, Vishnu, Vishnu, Vishnu!" The people are waiting to decide whether the Republican party must go, and the events that are still to come about will have more to do with that conclusion than mere phraseology. I observe the work of our political drummers is getting into pretty good shape. The phraseology is becoming more and more childish, and the people are waiting to decide whether the Republican party must go, and the events that are still to come about will have more to do with that conclusion than mere phraseology.
